Mayor Fulop Announces $25,000 Grant from the Tony Hawk Foundation for Skatepark in Berry Lane Park as Fulop Administration Develops Berry Lane into Jersey City’s Most Dynamic Recreational Facility

Foundation of Legendary Skateboarder Selects Jersey City as Top Grant Recipient from Nearly 100 Applicants Nationwide; Second Major Grant for Recreational Features at Park this Month

JERSEY CITY – Mayor Steven M. Fulop announced today that Jersey City was selected from nearly 100 applicants as the top 2015 grant recipient by the Tony Hawk Foundation for a $25,000 grant to install a state-of-the-art skatepark in Berry Lane Park as the Fulop Administration continues to develop Berry Lane Park into Jersey City’s most dynamic recreational facility.

The foundation was created by legendary skateboarder Tony Hawk as a way to give back to communities, promote the sport of skateboarding and expand opportunities for youth.

“We couldn’t be more excited about this grant, which will allow us to build a state-of-the-art skatepark at Berry Lane,” said Mayor Fulop. “Our local skateboarders were instrumental in the design process and this will be one of the best skate parks in the country. We can’t wait to invite Tony Hawk here to personally thank him.”

The skatepark, which will be approximately 12,000 square feet, will incorporate a combination of street and transition features, including a large, below ground concrete bowl. It will be the first poured in place concrete skatepark in Hudson County, and one of a small number in New Jersey. It was designed by SITE Design Group, Inc. of Carlsbad, CA, an internationally known designer of skateparks.

“The local skaters worked hard to get a park approved, attending Council meetings and lobbying their cause for the last eight years,” said Tony Hawk, who announced the award today on his Instagram account with 1.5 million followers.

Today’s announcement follows the announcement earlier this month that Jersey City was selected for a $173,500 grant from the Baseball Tomorrow Fund to install field lighting and a scoreboard at the park’s baseball field. In January, the Fulop administration announced plans to fast-track completion of Berry Lane Park with construction to be finished by the end of this year. The skatepark is scheduled to be completed when the park opens.

Some of the skatepark features include: A layback bank, hipped quarter pipes, a roller, an A-Frame ledge combo, a split level A-Frame w/gap, a three-star rail, a bump to ledge, a kicker gap, a flat rail over gap, a clam shell, a quarter pipe extension, a pump bump and a backyard bowl.

Applying for a grant from the Tony Hawk Foundation is a detailed process with many requirements, including that the park be free and open to the public. Other determining factors include the design of the skatepark which is reviewed by the THF Board of Director’s to ensure that the design is functional, safe, and shares a fair balance of riding terrain for all age groups and skill levels. With the minimum THF grant starting at $5,000 going all the way up to $25,000, many municipalities are applying in hopes of any kind of funding support.

“From the ashes of a demolished DIY skatepark, skateboarders engaged with City leaders to develop a sustainable long-term solution to the community’s skateboarding needs,” said Peter Whitley, Programs Director of the Tony Hawk Foundation. “More importantly, the skateboarders have been relentless in raising community awareness and gathering support for this incredible facility. This skatepark will be a regional landmark and we’re stoked that we are in a position to help see it finished.”

About Berry Lane Park:

Berry Lane Park is an ambitious project that will ultimately transform a 17-acre brownfield of former rail yards, junkyards and industrial facilities into a dynamic recreational facility in the heart of the city as part of Mayor Fulop’s commitment to invest in and enhance the quality of life of previously overlooked neighborhoods.

The park will include two basketball courts, two tennis courts, a baseball field, a soccer field, a dog run, a spray park, a skatepark, an adult fitness course and a playground. These active recreation components will provide opportunities to this neighborhood where more than 60 percent of residents are children under 18 years of age. When complete, the project will result in a nine percent increase in the amount of recreational open space in Jersey City.
